Menlo Park Probes Claim Of Poisoning

Menlo Park police were Tuesday investigating discovery in the Belle Haven area of three strychnine-dosed hot dogs, one of which nearly claimed a dog as its victim this morning.

"Mere luck" was described by police as the sole reason one of many small children who play in the neighborhood had not been poisoned instead of a small cocker spaniel which was saved by an emergency trip to an animal hospital.

Officer Bill Pipkin spotted the cocker leaving a vacant lot adjacent to 1100 Almaror Ave. with a wiener in his mouth just before 8 a.m.

Because several other dogs had been poisoned recently in the same area, Pipkin followed the cocker and retrieved the wiener when the dog started to bury it. Then he chased the dog three blocks to the home of its master, L. D. Plumley of 1034 Menlo Oaks Dr.

There he discovered the animal had symptoms of strychnine poisoning; he rushed it to a veterinarian who said they were "just in time."

Police Chief George Potter joined Pipkin in searching the vacant lot, where they found two more strychnine-loaded hot dogs.

Morse Faces Shooting Charge Here

George C. Morse, 42, of Woodside, Tuesday was charged with attempted murder of his wife, Virginia, and a family friend, Kenneth Hulme of Palo Alto.

The charge was contained in a formal complaint signed here by Dep. Sheriff Milton Minehan.

Both Mrs. Morse and Morse, who—police said—shot himself three times after wounding his wife and Hulme, are in Palo Alto Hospital. Their condition is described Tuesday as "good."

The triple shooting occurred shortly after midnight on Mar. 5 during a celebration by the Morses of their 10th wedding anniversary.

According to police, Morse, a San Francisco warehouse owner, shot his wife twice as she prepared a late supper in the kitchen of their Woodside home and then fired a single bullet at Hulme, who was also at the home.

After that, police said, Morse sent three bullets into his own body.

He and his wife were seriously wounded. Hulme, less badly hurt, has been released from the hospital.

No date for Morse's arraignment has yet been set by E. L. McAuliffe, justice of the peace here, before whom the complaint was signed Tuesday.

But the judge did set bail at $5000 cash or $10,000 bond.

Reber Plan to Solve Bay Area Problems, Author Tells 100 Attending BPWC Dinner

Two of the vital problems of the San Francisco Bay Area, developing a system of transportation across the Bay which could not be destroyed in case of war, and a lack of fresh water, would be solved if the Reber Plan were put into action, John Reber, author of the plan, told an audience of more than 100 who were present at the annual Public Affairs Dinner of the Redwood City Business and Professional Women's Club last night at the Three Owls. Helen Harper, president, presided.

Mr. Reber explained that his plan, which he has worked on for more than 30 years, consists of building a solid land dike 2000 feet wide joining San Francisco and Oakland and building a similar dike 600 feet wide connecting Castro Point near Richmond and Pt. San Quentin, making each dike a bridged traffic way.

By thus damming up the San Francisco Bay at these two points, two fresh water lakes would be created and a ship channel would be built joining the two lakes along with a series of ship locks to connect the remaining salt water area of the Bay with the ship channel.

Because of the type of construction of the dikes, rock and mud, it would, according to Mr. Reber, be indestructible, and by making these dikes traffic ways between the three main sections of area, able because of their size to handle vast amounts of traffic at the same time, the traffic problem would be solved. In speaking of his plan aiding the shortage of water, Mr. Reber said that water is the limit of growth and wealth and by creating two fresh water lakes, where there is now only "pollution" we would not only boost our fresh water supply, and undoubtedly cut down the price paid for water, but we would also create vast new lands for residential, beach and park areas where there is now nothing but salt flats.

By making San Francisco Bay into a fresh water harbor we would draw shipping to our shores, Mr. Reber said, and by dredging we could create new industrial lands along the bay which would draw new people into the area; new residential lands, as homes for these people; and most important, he said, the project would be self liquidating by increasing the business potentialities of the area.

Mr. Reber was introduced by Catherine Brennan, chairman of the public affairs committee. Mrs. Brennan was assisted by members of her committee, Burgle Whitman, Mary Thorne and Theda Armentrout and by Mary Rolla Tarratt, chairman of the radio and television committee, and her committee members, Frances Niedermuller and Lucille Nicolato.

Vern Griffith, chairman, announced that the club would hold a rummage sale on March 31 and April 1 and 2 on El Camino Real. Rummage donations may be brought to the Ivy Shop or to Hallett's Market. Among the guests at last night's meeting were Mrs. Reber; Myron Evans Harmon, president of the chamber of commerce; Carl Brennan of the Exchange Club; Hazel Delano, president of the Hayward BPWC; Edna Thorndyke, a member of the Hayward BPWC; Carmelita O'Neill, president of the Menlo Park BPWC; M. A. McCarl, superintendent of the Port of Redwood City, and many representatives from other local clubs.

CALIFORNIA POLL: State Families Still Seek Homes

BY MERVIN D. FIELD
Director, The California Poll

Fifteen per cent of the families in California are looking for a place to live at the present time according to a recent survey by the California Poll. Almost this entire group is now renting. Only 2 per cent of the home-owners say that they are looking for a new home.

While 15 per cent is sizable, it indicates a downward trend during recent years in the number of people actively looking for a place to live. The number of renters who are looking today is roughly half of the number who said they were looking for a place to live in a previous survey in early 1947. Among home-owners the decline is even more marked.

The over-all decline is reflected about equally in rural areas and medium sized towns while the greatest decrease appears in larger cities. This would appear to indicate a tendency to wait a year or so on the part of big-city dwellers especially. In cities over 100,000 in population nearly 50 per cent say that they are dissatisfied with their present living arrangements. Only 2 out of 5 are doing anything about it.

California Poll interviewers asked the following question of a representative cross-section of the California population:

"Are you looking for a place to live at the present time?"

March 1949 April 1947

Yes 15% 24%
No 85% 76%

The answers given by home-owners as opposed to home-owners are as follows:

March, 1949 April, 1947

Rent Own Rent Own

Yes 28% 2% 43% 8%
No 72% 98% 57% 92%

Interviewers discovered about the same amount of actual dissatisfaction with present living quarters as was evidenced in the previous survey. Roughly half of the California families who were questioned are still dissatisfied.

Especially among renters, a few more people now say that their homes are not all that they would like but that they will do for a year or so. On the other hand, among home-owners the number of people who are entirely satisfied has risen slightly.

"Which of these statements comes closest to describing the place in which you now live?"

(1) It is only temporary. I would move tomorrow if I had a place to go.

(2) It is not all that I would like, but it will do for a year or so.

(3) I am perfectly satisfied and I don't expect to move for a long time.

March 1949 April 1947

I'd move to-morrow 16% 20%

Wait a year or so 27% 26%

I'm satisfied 57% 54%

The answers given by home-owners as opposed to home-owners are as follows:

March, 1949 April, 1947

Rent Own Rent Own

I'd move 30% 1% 35% 7%

Wait a year or so 44% 12% 39% 14%

I'm satisfied 28% 87% 26% 79%

The outcome of rent control legislation and the costs of new construction may be the reasons behind the caution which is guiding many Californians' plans for taking steps to improve their living arrangements. Vacant rentals and empty new construction are on the increase in all parts of the state in spite of the overwhelming dissatisfaction with living quarters expressed by California families.

THE REASON SO MANY HUSBANDS

BRING THEIR
MARQUARD'S

Pour souls! You have our sympathy—after a good hard day at the office, Hubby is about ready for a little peace and rest, but the dear wife feels that it's his duty to help with the kitchen chores. This has been getting altogether too much for the Mrs., so after many days of planning to overcome this tedious work, Hubby discovers Marquard's. What luck! Now he finds they can dine here for less and without all the fuss and muss at home. You, too, can do the same—bring the kiddies to America's most famous drive-in restaurant.
